Did you know FCA International has Quality Manual and Quality Assurance/Control Plans available for contractors?

Being an FCA member just got more valuable! If your contractors complete the Quality Manual Request From, they will be contacted by FCA to have a custom tailored Quality Manual and Quality Assurance/Control Plans made for their organization. This has been one of the most sought out benefits by our contractors recently. So much so, that we've had contractors that had recently paid tens of thousands of dollars for a quality plan, then view these materials and use the FCA provided items instead. The plan is comprehensive and good for any company. The Quality Manual is for the company, the Quality Assurance/Control Plans are for jobsite specific plans. Both include many Quality System Forms. The contractor's quality manager will need to commit roughly 30–90 minutes speaking with the consultant for the materials to be created. Most manuals that are created are given to the contractor within one week of speaking with the consultant.

For any company interested, please complete the form in this link Quality Manual Request From to be contacted by FCA to complete your request. I will work directly with any contractors to ensure they receive their materials.

Please let me know if you would like any more information or have any questions.

NOTE FROM LAST WEEK I would like to introduce to you this newly created, regular email I will be sending called "Did you know?" Each week I plan to send you an email that will highlight a single product or service FCA International provides in very simple communication. There are many things that we have available and I can't possibly update you with all of them in one sitting. As each week passes, there may be a product or service that is relevant to your needs, perhaps something we hadn't already discussed. This email will be an opportunity to hear about the many good things FCA has. It will be a work in progress, so please provide feedback if you see areas of improvement or would like to request specific information. And, as always, please call me anytime with any questions or comments.

That's it for this week, see ya!
